Ambulance Surgeon Declared He Was Drunk, Saying Wound on the Head Was Only Superficial.

An official investigation is to follow in the case of the death of John Schimpf, jr., of No. 910 President street, Brooklyn, and Dr. Reynolds, of St. Mary's Hospital, will be asked why he permitted Mr. Schimpf to be locked in a cell as a drunken man when he was suffering from a fractured skull and concussion of the brain, injuries which proved fatal after he had been in the cell twelve hours.

A street car is supposed to have struck Mr. Schimpf, who was wealthy and a member of the firm of John Schimpf & Sons, plated ware manufacturers, of Manhattan and Brooklyn.

He was picked up by the police at Albany avenue and Fulton street, the police believing he had been injured. Dr. Reynolds answered a call in an ambulance from St. Mary's Hospital and Harlem River, which was then directly after a quick examination said Schimpf after a quick examination said Schimpf was not injured, "only drunk," and the police took him to the Atlantic avenue station, where he was placed in a cell.

As he was unable to give his name he was registered as John Smith.

After the unconscious man had been a prisoner twelve hours it was time to take him. Frightened, they again realled an ambulance from St. Mary's Hospital. Dr. Flannery responded this time and he found that Mr. Schimpf had a bad fracture of the skull and was unbonscious because of concussion of the brain.

had a bad fracture of the skull and was unconscious because of concussion of the brain.

He was hurried to the hospital and an operation performed, but he died a few minutes later.

"If we could have operated on this man three hours before we could have saved his life," said one of the doctors. Dr. Reynolds said of the incident:

"There were no smyptoms of concussion of the brain that I could see. The laceration on the top of the head extended back about two inches behind the right ear, but the wound seemed only superficial."

"Mr. Schimpf did not die of a fractured skull. Of that I am positive. His death was due to cerebral hemorrhage. When I saw him he was sitting on the curb stone suffering from a superficial scale wound. It looked like an ordinary cut. I made a very thorough examination, as I heard from people standing by the man had been struck by a trolley bar.

"There was no evidence of his suffer-

There was no evidence of his suffering from anything but a superficial laceration of the scalp. There was plenty of evidence that he was drunk. I could smell the liquid on his breath. "Mr. Schimpi's cerebral hemorrhage did not develop until hours after I saw him. It was progressive and covered a large portion of the brain area. It was on the left side of the head, while the lacerated wound was on the right side." "I shall welcome any investigation of this case."

At the Schilling At the four action would be taken until after the funeral.

At the offices of the Board of Health, Dr. Joseph H. Raymond, Sanitary Superintendent, said the case of Mr. Schilling was one for the Coroner to investigate and that if the inquest developed anything which showed he had been improperly treated by Dr. Reynolds the Board of Health would take action Dr. Raymond would not discuss Dr. Reynolds's treatment of the case.

MALTA-VITA PURE FOOD CO.

Perspiration -- "sweat" is what the Bible and we common people call t-is a way nature has of driving out of the body refuse that has no business there. We sweat more in summer, because, in the overheated bowels, undigested food ferments more quickly than in winter and produces irritating acids and gases. The bowels, overworked, try to relieve themselves by violent convulsions, causing terrible gripes and colics, and diarrhoeal discharges so acid as to make you sore, and leaving the intestines weak and worn out. Nature assists body-cleaning by sending the filth out through the pores of the skin. It is not safe to stop perspiring alto-gether but most of the impure matter should be sent out by the natural movements of the bowels, and the offensive, illsmelling, linen-staining sweat done away with. Keep your bowels strong all summer with the pleasant, candy cathartic CASCARETS, that clean the system and don't allow the excrement to be sweated out through the pores. Take a tablet every night, before go-ing to bed. They work while you sleep and make, you feel fine and cool all day.
